

Nong Han - Udon Thani, Thailand

Written by lee

Saturday, 20 June 2009 16:14 - Last Updated Monday, 08 March 2010 19:01

Nong Han (Thai: นonghan) is a district (Amphoe) of Udon Thani Province, northeastern Thailand.

The archaeological site of Ban Chiang is a world heritage site since 1992. It was settled from neolithic till Iron Age times, and is most famous for its red painted pottery.

Mueang Nong Han was one of the four original subdivisions of Udon Thani, which were converted into Amphoe during the thesaphiban administrative reforms in 1897.

Accommodation Options in Nong Han

Happy Resort

254 Baan Muang, Nong Haan, Udon Thani. (Route 2)

Downtown Traveler Review : (0 from 5)

Hotel Information : Info | Room | Facilities | Map | Photo

View Nong Han in a larger map

{loadposition districts}